DEATH CAUSED BY SPLINTER

William D. Stock, Well-Known Resident of Mount Pleasant Township Dies after Ten Days' Illness from Blood Poisoning.

William D. Stock, one of Mount Pleasant township's best known citizens died at five o'clock this morning at his home in that township after an illness of ten days from Blood Poisoning caused by the wound of a splinter. He was aged 58 years.

Mr. Stock was working about two weeks ago at the farm of Samuel Stock, in Mount Pleasant township, who recently had several buildings destroyed by fire. He got a large splinter in his hand but no serious results were anticipated. In a few days, however, the arm began to show signs of swelling and medical aid was summoned. The poisoning spread and early this week the attending physicians, Dr. G. E. Spatz and Dr. J. L. Sheetz, used strenuous measures to save his life. The arm was opened at almost a score of places but, despite their skill, Mr. Stock grew steadily worse, death following as noted.

Mr. Stock was one of the most prominent residents of Mount Pleasant township. He was a school director for many years and always had the esteem and admiration of a large circle of friends. He was a consistent member of St. Paul's Lutheran church, New Oxford.

Surviving Mr. Stock are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Stock, of New Oxford; his wife and the following children, Mrs. H. D. Hoover, of Carthage, Illinois; Mrs. Harry Hart, of Hanover; Mrs. H. E. Kester, of Sunbury; Miss Ethel Stock, Charles and Lloyd Stock at home. One sister and two brothers also survive, Mrs. Amos Sponseller, of near White Hall; Albertus Stock, of Littlestown, and Uriah Stock, of near New Oxford.

Funeral Sunday afternoon at two o'clock from his late home conducted by Rev. George N. Laufer. Interment in the New Oxford cemetery.

EDWARD WEAVER

Edward Weaver, aged 82 years, 2 months and 21 days, was found dead in bed about 6 o'clock Thursday morning at the home of his son, Henry J. Weaver, in McSherrystown.

Mr. Weaver, who had been ill for some time, retired Wednesday night as usual, after a hearty supper. Death must have occurred early in the morning, as the body was still warm when found.

Deceased was a son of the late Henry Weaver, of near Flatbush, Mount Pleasant township, and was married about 55 years ago to Miss Mary Hull, of near Jefferson, who died four years ago.

He is survived by two sons—F. A. Weaver, of Hanover, and Henry S. Weaver, of McSherrystown.

Funeral Saturday, April 23, at 9 a. m. Services at St. Mary's Catholic church and interment in St. Mary's cemetery, the Rev. F. Aug. Reudter officiating.

FROM YORK TO BALTIMORE

The new trolley line from Hanover to Reisterstown, Md., to be built by the Baltimore and Pennsylvania Railway company, will be of considerable magnitude. While the terminus of the line from Hanover will be at Reisterstown, it is proposed to effect some arrangement with the United Railways company to reach Baltimore over its tracks. The Maryland Construction company has been awarded the contract for the construction of the work.

By the proposed construction the mileage from Baltimore to Hanover will be forty two miles, as against fifty five by rail at present. York will be only fifty six miles from Baltimore, and Gettysburg, when the surveyed lines are completed, will be a distance of fifty six miles from Baltimore city.

$13.00 FOR THE UNMUZZLED DOGS

Owners Pay Fine of Ten Dollars and Costs of Three Dollars Each in Dog Cases. Officer Starner Makes More Arrests.

The unlucky thirteen is playing its part in Gettysburg's dog quarantine matters and as a result two people on Thursday evening handed out $13.00 each to settle the charges against them of allowing their dogs on the streets unmuzzled. These two were Harry C. Lackner and Herbert P. Humphries.

The minimum fine of $10.00 each was imposed and the costs in each case were $3.00. The Lackner dog, it will be remembered, escaped after its arrest, while the dog belonging to Mr. Humphries was kept in the lock-up until its return to the college campus and its friends are keeping careful watch to see that it keeps within the bounds of the law.

This morning Dog Officer Starner arrested several more animals. Two were residents of the Third Ward, one of the dogs being a small white animal belonging to William Flemming and the other a black and tan, the property of James Valentine. One lean yellow cur, owner unknown, was also placed under arrest.

These cases have not as yet been settled.

James Bell, who was critically burned by the forest fire in Perry county, April 10, died Thursday morning as the result of his burns.

Mr. Bell, who owned 12,000 acres of forest and farm land in Perry county, was surrounded by the flames during the fire and in fighting his way to the open land was burned over so considerable a portion of his body that little hope for his recovery was entertained. He was sixty eight years old.

Mr. Bell was well known in this section. He resided in Perry county all of his life. He was born in Wheatfield township and for thirty three years had resided in the house in which he died. At one time he was the Perry county surveyor and on several occasions he held township offices.

MAY WILL BE A BUSY MONTH

Next Month to See Numerous Tourist Parties in Gettysburg. West Point Seniors Coming. State Convention here.

May 1910 will be one of the biggest spring months in the tourist trade that Gettysburg has ever seen, if present bookings are to be taken as any indication of the business which will be done.

During the month at least a half dozen personally conducted tourist parties, sent by the various railroads, will come to Gettysburg on Southern tours. A New England school will be among the tourist crowds, while many of the tours will come from the northern states. The West Point Seniors are scheduled for their annual trip on May second and the bookings have been so numerous that in one or two instances dates have been changed to allow accommodations to be given.

With all this tourist business on hand and the state convention of the Knights of the Golden Eagle the town will have its hands full. The convention is scheduled for May 10, 11 and 12. Further details will appear in these columns later.

That this business will continue throughout the entire season is believed. July will see the maneuvers and the week of the National Grand Army encampment at Atlantic City will be a busy one here. Hotel reservations for that week are already being made in large numbers and the town will have its share of the convention visitors. Most of these will be veterans from other states who come a distance for the convention.

The date for the dedication of the new Pennsylvania monument is set for September 27. If this is carried out it will mean one more big day for Gettysburg.

On account of the inclement weather Sunday the Reformed communion service at St. Paul's, Red Run, was postponed until May 1 at 2 o'clock.

NOW AND THEN

The weather conditions and their effects on fruits and crops form an interesting topic of discussion by Adams County farmers. It is the consensus of opinion that the season is at least two weeks in advance. The apple, cherry and pear trees are in their height of bloom, an unusual thing for April. A farmer who notes the weather and crop conditions recalls the fact that the spring of 1874 was a backward one. Peaches began to blossom April 27, and the next day it snowed and rained, and on the morning of April 29 three inches of snow fell. In the same year cherry trees began to blossom May 7, pears May 11 and apple trees May 10.

In the year 1890 pear trees first bloomed April 12 and apple trees April 25. In 1893 peaches first bloomed May 1, and in 1908 on April 14, apple trees April 27 and lilacs May 8. This year peaches were blooming March 29 and lilacs April 15.

The above statements exhibit a variation of more than a month in peach blooming. On April 19, 20 and 21, 1857, fifty three years ago, snow fell to the depth of two feet on the level in different sections of the state.

POISON ANIMALS BEFORE JURY

Effects of Strychnine to be Shown in Swope Case.

NURSE ON THE STAND

Told Details of the Typhoid Epidemic In the Swope Home and the Convulsions of Dead Man's Daughter.

Kansas City, Mo., April 22.—In order to show the effects of strychnine in the defense of Dr. B. C. Hyde, charged with the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope and his family, dogs will be inoculated with the poison. On the other hand, the state has announced its intention of demonstrating the action of strychnine by poisoning a live frog before the eyes of the jury.

Toxicologists employed by Dr. Hyde are maintaining a "poison" squad of six dogs for the purpose of studying the effects of strychnine upon them. Some of the canines are being given one-fifth of a grain of strychnine four times a day. Others receive a smaller amount of the poison.

Some of the dogs will be permitted to die from the effects of the drugs. Others will be killed. The digestive organs of the animals will be used by the defense in presenting its case to the jury.

Hans Jensen, a prominent veterinarian, has been retained by Dr. Hyde to assist in the experiments on the dogs. He will also testify at the trial.

Nurse Tells of Epidemic.

The insistence of Dr. Hyde that Miss Pearl Keller, a nurse, complete at one time all of her testimony for the state caused Judge Latschaw to permit the witness to go into the details of the typhoid epidemic in the Swope home.

Most startling of all the features of Miss Keller's story was her assertion that the convulsion suffered by Margaret Swope on Dec. 18 was very similar to the attack that preceded Colonel Swope's death. The state charges that on this day Dr. Hyde poisoned Margaret Swope.

"Is it not true that when you went to the Swope residence there was trouble with the plumbing which carried away being torn out?" Attorney Walsh asked the nurse.

"The plumbing was being removed, but I do not know why," she replied.

Turning to the death of James M. Hunton, Mr. Walsh asked the nurse if ever before she had attended an apoplectic case. She said she had not.

"The body continued to twitch and jerk until bleeding started, did it not?" asked Mr. Walsh.

"Mr. Hunton's body did not convulse, but moved as if breathing was difficult," said Miss Keller.

Margaret Swope's illness.
On Dec. 11, said Miss Keller, she went to the Swope home and took charge of Miss Sarah Swope. The Sunday following, she testified, she heard that Dr. Swope had given Miss Margaret Swope a hypodermic injection.

Dr. Hyde asserted, she said, that he had given a harmless injection of camphor and oil for intermittent pulse.

"On the day following the giving of the injection," testified the witness, "I saw Margaret's arm. It was on a pillow and was badly swollen. The girl appeared to be in great pain."

Upon objection of Dr. Hyde's attorney the portion of the answer regarding the girl appearing to be in great pain was ordered stricken out.

The contention of the state is that Dr. Hyde, instead of giving Margaret Swope an injection of oil, had injected "pus" germs into her arm.

Miss Keller closed her testimony for the state by telling briefly about Miss Lucy Lee Swope being attacked by typhoid fever four days after her return from New York in company of Dr. Hyde.

MAN SHOT DOWN IN STREET

Assailant Then Ran to His Home and Committed Suicide.

Lancaster, Pa., April 22.—Edward Dolan, a farmer, at an iron foundry, shot and fatally injured Harry F. Hinton, a widely known merchant, on North Queen street, this city. Then he shot and killed himself.

Dolan's wife died about Christmas time. After her death he accused Hinton of having been attentive to her, and ill-feeling has existed between the two men. Dolan went to Hinton's store and called him outside. When Hinton appeared Dolan pulled a revolver and fired three times at him, each bullet entering his body.

Dolan then appeared crazed by fright and ran screaming to his home, which is about half a square away. Using the same revolver, he shot himself through the head and died instantly. Hinton was removed to the General Hospital, and is in a critical condition. The three bullets were located by the surgeons in the region of the stomach and his chances of recovery are slight.

PARIS HONORS ROOSEVELT

Former President Was Received by President Fallieres.

Paris, April 22.—Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, was received in Paris with all the honors of reigning sovereigns traveling incognito.

Assembled upon the platform of the station to formally welcome Mr. Roosevelt were, in addition to the American ambassador, Mr. Bacon, and the other of the staff of embassy, M. Jusserand, French ambassador at Washington, who came from America especially to be present during Mr. Roosevelt's visit; Commandant Heliot, personal aide to President Fallieres; A. Mollard, introducer of the diplomatic corps, representing the foreign minister; Pichon M. Huard, representing Premier Briand; M. Caron, president of the municipal council; General Brugere, chief of the general staff of the French army; M. Lepine, prefect of police, and a number of other notables.

In the turn of the representatives of the government and the municipality extended a formal welcome to the guest. These formalities were over in a few minutes, and Colonel Roosevelt, Kermit Roosevelt, with Mr. Bacon and M. Jusserand, entered an automobile and were driven rapidly to the American ambassador's residence, where Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel were awaiting them.

The official part of Colonel Roosevelt's program began with calls upon President Fallieres and Foreign Minister Pichon, who immediately afterwards paid return visits to the embassy.

Mrs. Roosevelt accompanied her husband to the Elysee Palace, where they were received by both the President and Madame Fallieres.

No military honors were shown within the courtyard such as are rendered upon the occasion of an official visit by a chief of state. It is understood that this was at the specific request of Colonel Roosevelt, who wished to emphasize his position as that of a private citizen.

The call lasted twenty-six minutes and was marked by great cordiality. From the palace the party returned to the home of Mr. Bacon, where Mrs. Roosevelt stopped, the colonel proceeding to the foreign office.

TAFT WON'T SHIRK RESPONSIBILITIES

Will Not Play Politics to Secure Renomination.

Washington, April 22.—There has been a lot of speculation recently as to President Taft's present frame of mind in regard to another term in the White House. In some quarters the president has been quoted as thoroughly tired of the indiscriminate criticism and abuse that have been heaped upon him and his administration that he now feels like declining to allow the use of his name in regard to a renomination.

These reports have put Mr. Taft in the attitude of deserting his friends and running away from the situation confronting the Republican party. Nothing could be further from the truth. It can be said that Mr. Taft has no disposition to shrink from the responsibilities of his administration and that he will not hesitate to stand for renomination if the party calls him to it.

What President Taft will not do is to resort to well known political expedients to strengthen his own position and obtain a renomination. His present attitude is described hardly as one of indifference, but he is determined to go ahead and run his administration as he deems best for the country regardless of its effect on his political future. Republican leaders who have talked with him recently on this subject say his attitude is practically this: "If at the end of his first term the Republican party feels like calling upon him again, even if it is to go down to defeat, he will accept; and if it doesn't he will retire. It is said, with the satisfaction of knowing he has done what he believed to be best."

Saves Woman in Presence of Child.
New York, April 22.—Mrs. Frederick Cozely, a young woman of North Plainfield, N. J., near here, was slain at her home by John Grant, a boarder, nineteen years old, who shot her in the right temple in the presence of her four-year-old daughter, Marion. Grant made his escape.

Convict Destroyed; Nuns Killed.
Lisbon, April 22.—A portion of the mountainside has slipped near Manresa, thirty miles from Barcelona, destroying the Convent of San Pablo. A number of nuns were buried in the ruins. Three corpses have been recovered and nine of the nuns have been rescued. They are suffering from serious injuries.

Takes Poison After Quarrel.
Lancaster, Pa., April 22.—Marie Trewitz, aged seventeen years, after a love quarrel, attempted suicide by taking laudanum. She drank the contents of a two-ounce bottle. She was sent to the General Hospital in time to save her life.

Taking the "Walking Cure."
Pittsburg, Pa., April 22.—Walking from Boston to Denver as a cure for tuberculosis, J. W. Lee, thirty years old, applied at the Allegheny General Hospital for medical treatment, and was invited to stay, but with a short rest he continued on his trip.

TO TOUR ON BICYCLE

Alvey A. Adey to Pedal 2000 Miles in Germany.

New York, April 22.—Alvey A. Adey, assistant secretary of state, sailed on the French liner La Touraine to pedal 2000 miles in Germany on a bicycle.

"I am going straight to Berlin this year," said Mr. Adey, "and will there meet Consul General Thacker, of the American service. We will then start on our tour."

"I am a great believer in the bicycle as a health preserver for men getting along in years. To my mind it is better than John D. Rockefeller's golf, because you can ride at any time and any place, and have a constant change of scene."

ENGINEER GOES MAD AND WRECKS TRAIN

Dashes His Engine Full Speed Into Caboose.

Wilmington, Del., April 22.—Declaring that the road had commanded him to run his train into another, William C. Moore, an engineer on the New York division of the Pennsylvania railroad, sent his locomotive into the rear of a Philadelphia freight train waiting to enter the Edgemoor yards.

The caboose and one car of the latter train were crushed, and shortly after took fire from the overturned stove in the cab car. Nobody was hurt.

Moore jumped from his engine and proceeded to make things warm for the yard men. He handled them like so many children for a time, but was finally overpowered and manacled hand and foot, bundled on an engine and brought to Wilmington. He is now in a straight jacket at the Delaware hospital.

Moore is believed to have become suddenly insane. He ran by two red signals and refused to heed a flag man who frantically signalled him to stop. When asked why he ran into the other train, he replied: "The lord told me to."

Beauty-Doctor's New Shampoo

A professional hair dresser recently told about the new shampoo which is now so much in vogue in smart hair-dressing establishments. Turkish towels are heated so hot that they can scarcely be borne in the hand. The head is rubbed with these and a frequent change of towels should be kept up until the hair is entirely free from superfluous oil. With these shampoos once a week the hair soon takes on its natural brilliancy and in the course of time may even appear more brilliant than Nature intended. There are women who, notwithstanding any care they give their hair in the way of regular brushing and shampooing, still are troubled with gray hairs coming in long before the natural time. This is probably owing to wrong diet or a feeble disposition, or both. The surest way to overcome this and to restore the hair to its natural color is to use that old standard preparation HAY'S HAIR HEALTH, which is safe to apply, and furnishes the necessary nourishment to the roots of the hair, causing a healthy, brilliant and natural shine. DEATH CLAIMS MARK TWAIN

King of Wits Passes Away at His Connecticut Home.

WROTE HIS LAST WORDS

Humorist Lapsed Into Unconsciousness and Passed Away Without a Struggle—Tried to Joke Until the Last.

Redding, Conn., April 22.—Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) died of angina pectoris at his home near this city. He became unconscious and sank gradually until his death.

All hope of a recovery was abandoned on Wednesday night, when it was evident to the physicians attending him that the patient was gradually losing ground. He had been conscious through practically all of his illness and had considerable knowledge of his condition and of the fight that was in progress. His spirits kept up to the last, and until Wednesday night he tried to joke a little with the people about him.

He recognized his daughter, spoke a rational word or two and, feeling himself unequal to conversation, wrote out in pencil: "Give me my glasses." Those were his last words. Laying them aside he sank first into reverie and later into final unconsciousness.

The final unconsciousness came very gradually, and those about him thought it might be merely one of the periods which he had experienced before in this illness. He didn't rally, however. At no time during his last hours did he appear to be in great pain and the end came easily and without a struggle.

With Mr. Clemens were his daughter, Clara; her husband, Ossip Gabrilowitch; Albert Bigelow Paine, his secretary; Dr. Robert H. Halsey and the nurses.

America's Most Popular Author.

Beyond question Mark Twain was the most popular American author. Some persons think of him as the most popular writer in the English language, certainly, and a philosopher of parts. In recent years his conspicuous and pungent personality has made him not less than a national institution.

He had written much, and amongst it all, what one person did not care for, another did; and so the summary was made up. One of his earlier pieces—"The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County"—was first published in 1864—still keeps its tang today, its whiff of freshness, along with some of the most fundamental of the world's best stories. Something in the same way, "The Innocents Abroad," a narrative description of the adventures of the first big ocean picnic party in the ship Quaker City, which was published in 1869, still leads all the books of travel which have succeeded it; it continues to have a greater demand than any other book in its field.

Writings of this quality possess something more than a flavor, even though it is by this flavor that most persons distinguish them. They contain, somehow, the very essence of human nature not overlaid with an excessive civilization. The words used are more like men's talk than their written language, and when into such powerful plain writing as this are transcribed frequent strokes of real genius, the result is a literary product which can endure much everyday wear and tear, as well as stand many of the acid tests of the schools.

His Father "Kept Store."

He was born in 1835 in the town of Florida, Mo. His father was a lawyer who "kept store," because he could not live by his profession, in those times. Something of the visionary qualities of one of Mark Twain's particularly deathless characters, Colonel Mulberry Sellers, may have been present in Judge Clemens. They also reappeared in his son. He died when Samuel Clemens was only twelve years old and thereafter, throughout his life, the son kept "moving on" about the country and the world. The family was living at Hannibal, Mo., when his father died, and the boy's first writing was done for the Hannibal Journal. At the age of eighteen he came to New York and worked as a printer; then to Philadelphia and Washington; then back to Missouri and Iowa. He went from Cincinnati to New Orleans, where he decided to become a Mississippi pilot, to learn almost literally to feel his way in the dark through the more than a thousand miles of river between New Orleans and St. Louis. Something of all this he has set down in "Life on the Mississippi."

After a short experience in the war, he turned to mining in Nevada, and in 1862 switched off to become the editor of the Virginia City Enterprise newspaper. Here his contributions were first signed with the name "Mark Twain." Thence, after a time, to San Francisco, where he found a congenial colleague in Bret Harte. In 1866 he went out to Honolulu to send back letters to the Sacramento Union. These were as well received as all his work, and when, in 1867, the "Quaker City" excursion to the Holy Land was planned, the Alta California accredited him with the party, to send back letters at $20 apiece. These letters, together with others written to the New York Tribune, were the foundation of his fame. Everybody read

Biliousness

"I have used your valuable Cascarets and I find them perfect. Couldn't do without them. I have used them for some time for indigestion and biliousness and am now completely cured. Recommend them to everyone. Once tried, you will never be without them in the family."—Edward A. Marx, Albany, N.Y.

of Mark Twain.

them and talked about them, and when he came back publishers besieged him. "The Innocents Abroad" was his cornerstone.

World-Wide Honors.

He married, in 1870, Miss Olivia Langdon, of Elmira, and went to live in Buffalo, where he became interested in the Express newspaper. But after a few years the family moved to Hartford, where they lived from 1874 for nearly seventeen years. Many books were published during this period, and Mrs. Clemens began her work as her husband's literary adviser and kept up this work as long as she lived. An occasional lecture tour afforded variety; but the platform became very distasteful to him and he declared he would never lecture again. Yet in 1895 he started out on the "reading tour" around the world, which set him on his feet again financially and gained him wide approbation. Then came a stay in Europe, but after a period of family bereavement he came back to America in 1900. In 1888 Yale gave him the degree of master of arts, and in 1901 the degree of doctor of literature. In 1907 Oxford university crowned his honors with the degree of Litt. Doc. The world rang with his name.

Mark Twain's permanent fame is a structure which is likely to rest upon the foundation of individual preference among his readers. There will always be those who will think there is no such human comedy as "The Innocents Abroad." Others will rest their admiration upon "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn," others upon "A Yankee in King Arthur's Court." Others will believe that the best thing he ever did is the biographical romance of "Joan of Arc." A man with so much humor streaked through him was bound to have corresponding streaks of emotionalism; probably "Joan of Arc" contains as considerable serious work as anything he ever wrote. The fact that he rated it most highly counts for very little except as a coincidence. Writers seldom have a perspective of their work which looks true to other persons. Mark Twain never liked the "Jumping Frog" story, for instance; was bored by the persistence of the public, which demanded its translation into other languages. And to be sure—"H't, Dan!" would sound quaint in French or Italian.

He was altogether the most conspicuous figure among American literary men, but he was so much besides a literary man that such a tag never seemed exactly the right one for him. He filled a great place in the imagination of the American people, and, indeed, of all the English-speaking world. And in his latest years his failing health has thrown an added glamour about his picturesque and rugged figure.

W. J. BRYAN ON LIQUOR QUESTION

Seeks No Political Advantage In His Stand.

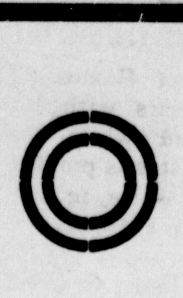

Lincoln, Neb., April 22.—William J. Bryan gave out a statement in which he declared that he was not seeking political advantage from his stand against the saloon in politics, and that he does not believe prohibition would become a national issue during his lifetime. He says he is against the interference of the brewers and distillers in politics, just as he is against the trust in politics.

Only a sense of duty, he says, has prompted him to take this stand, and if it kills him politically, as has been intimated to him, he will die honorably and his political death may at least help to convince thoughtful people of the magnitude of the powers that are banded together to do evil. He disputes the proposition that the right of individuals to drink includes the right to sell liquor to others, and he has no desire to oppose other than the abuse of drink. He believes that congress should pass laws recognizing the right of a state to prescribe the conditions upon which liquor can be transported within its borders and stop granting government licenses in dry communities.

Porch Shades

Are Needed

You need Vudor Porch Shades to get the most out of your porch.

To make it a spot where you can rest or work on the hottest days, outdoors, yet free from the sun's glare and heat.

Vudor Porch Shades are very durable, and will last many seasons.

Another good feature about them is the peculiar fact that those sitting on the porch can see out, but passersby cannot see in. In other words, you have complete privacy, and can use the porch or veranda the same as an inside room, with infinitely more comfort on hot days.

Vudor Porch Shades are just the thing for "boxing in" porches or balconies that are to be used as outdoor sleeping or living apartments.

Vudor Porch Shades are made of thin, flat strips of wood of the kind that best endures outdoor exposure. These strips are closely bound together with Seine Twine, in a lockstitch weave.

They are artistically stained in soft, pleasing colors. These colors are weather proof, and will not fade or crack off.

The shades can be instantly raised, or lowered (operating on the principle of a theatre curtain) and are easily and readily put up.

Why They Are Better Than Awnings, Bamboo Screens or Canvas Drops.

Vudor Porch Shades should not be confused with ordinary porch screens—canvass curtains or bamboo shades, for instance.

Awnings and canvas curtains shut out the sun, it is true, but as they likewise completely prevent the circulation of air, the porch becomes an oven. It is like sitting in a tent with the sun beating down upon it. They also spoil the neat appearance of a porch.

Cost and Sizes

Any ordinary porch can be shaded with Vudor Shades at a cost of from $3.00 to $10.00

The regulation stock sizes are:

4ft. wide x 7 ft. 8 in. drop.	10 ft. wide x 7 ft. 8 in. drop.
6 ft. wide x 7 ft. 8 in. drop.	10 ft. wide x 10 ft. drop.
8 ft. wide x 7 ft. 8 in. drop.

We will gladly furnish special sizes to order in single shades up to ten feet in width at small extra cost. Wider spaces can be equipped with two or more stock or special shades.

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS 41 MINERS

Every Man in Shaft at Mulga, Ala., Perished.

RESCUERS DRIVEN BACK

Flames Shot From Mouth of Mine and All Windows in the Town Were Broken by the Explosion.

Birmingham, Ala., April 22.—Not one of the forty-one men imprisoned in the Mulga mine of the Birmingham Iron and Coal company by an explosion of gas is alive.

This became certain when, unconscious from the deadly fumes of the shaft, Superintendent Johns of the mine and a man named Bonds, who risked their lives for those who had already perished, were drawn up to fresh air. Long before the rescuers were revived their condition told the fate of the miners.

The watchers knew that if the rescuers, helplessly and protected, had so narrowly escaped death, there was no hope for the miners who had been entombed by the explosion of gas.

When Johns and Bonds, after heroic treatment, finally regained consciousness they confirmed the gravest anticipations of the people who for hours had waited at the mouths of the shaft to hear a word of their loved ones.

"Dead—all dead," was the statement of Superintendent Johns as he began to recover from the effects of the poisonous gases.

Before they had lost consciousness the rescuers had reached the first gallery. Even near the shaft they saw things, they said, that made them know that nothing short of a miracle could have saved the men.

Following the explosion, flames shot up the shaft of the mine for a distance of about 100 feet and the ground is covered with charred timbers around the mouth of the shaft. They were blown up from the bottom of a 250-foot shaft. Every window in the village was broken by the explosion.

Around the entrance to the mine, in addition to the families of the entombed men, hundreds from the surrounding mining districts swelled the crowds, until it was with great difficulty that the work of rescue could be carried on.

It is said the cause of the explosion is unknown. James Bonneyman, of Birmingham, general manager of the Birmingham Coal and Iron company, has left for Mulga to take charge of the rescue work. Mulga is about twelve miles northwest of Birmingham.

The Mulga mine has been worked for two years.

WESTERN RAILROADS FACE STRIKE

10,000 Machinists on Fourteen Railways Demand Wage Increase.

Chicago, April 22.—Representatives of 10,000 machinists, employed by fourteen western railroads, returned to union headquarters here with authority, as the result of a vote, to call strikes unless the railroads meet a demand for a 10 per cent advance in wages.

Local machinists not employed on railroads threaten to strike May 1 unless they are granted an increase of 25 per cent in wages.

Lehigh Valley Announces Raise.

New York, April 22.—The Lehigh Valley railroad announced that, following the increase in wages given to the engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen, it was decided to increase the wages of its other employees, including the clerical force. The increase averages 6 per cent, and will go into effect May 1.

10 YEARS FOR P. O. ROBBERS

Two Plead Guilty to Robbing the Richmond, Va., Office.

Richmond, Va., April 22.—Pleading guilty to the robbery of the Richmond postoffice on the night of March 27, when $85,000 was taken, Eddie Fay and "Little Dick" Harris were sentenced to ten years in the Atlanta penitentiary. They were also fined $6000 each.

Own Bomb Maims Student.

Norristown, Pa., April 22.—Carl W. Yoh, of Chambersburg, a freshman at Ursinus college, lost three fingers of his right hand by the explosion of a bomb which he had made to scare the students. The bomb was made from a brass knob off his bed and was filled with powder.

Doctor Gets $100,000 Fee.

Chicago, April 22.—Dr. L. C. H. E. Zeigler, under a supreme court decision, is entitled to $100,000 from the estate of Mrs. J. H. McVicker, as provided by the contract he held to render her medical attendance during her life.

THE SEED BED.

Next to securing good seed that will grow there is no other respect in which the tiller of the soil should exercise greater care than in the preparation of the seed bed. Most farmers fall down here and lessen the capacity of their land to produce large crops to a larger extent than in any other single way. Valuable land should receive something better than this thirty-cent care, which is best practiced as generally as it is because the sinners along this line don't realize that for small grain to grow properly the bed in which it is planted must be loose enough to make possible a ready circulation of air and moisture from the surface down and from the subsoil to the surface.

Free Sample Aids Old Men

The sudden change from years of activity of both body and mind to the quiet of later years causes the human system to undergo many changes, chief of which is in the digestive organs.

It becomes harder and harder to get the bowels to move promptly and regularly and in consequence many elderly men suffer not only from the basic trouble, constipation, but from indigestion, headache, belching, sour stomach, drowsiness after eating and similar annoyances. It is first of all necessary to keep the bowels open and then to tone the digestive muscles so as to get them to again do their work naturally. A violent cathartic or purgative is not only unnecessary but harmful, and something mild will do the work just as well.

After you have got through experimenting with salts and pills and waters of various kinds, and have become convinced that they do only temporary good at best, then try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild, gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative tonic that is especially adapted to the requirements of old people, women and children, and yet is effective enough for anybody. Your druggist, who has handled it successfully for a quarter of a century, will sell you a bottle for fifty cents or one dollar, but if you want to make a test of it before spending any money send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and he will gladly send you a sample bottle free of charge.

This remedy is rapidly displacing all other forms of medication for the cure of stomach, liver and bowel trouble, and families like Mr. O. F. Wisner's of Byamore, Ill., and Mrs. Carrie Culler's of 315 N. Notre Dame street, South Bend, Ind., are now never without it in the house. They have tested it and know its grand value to every member of the family.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For other request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 521 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

AN HONEST MAN SAVED

BY PHILANTHROPIST

Mr. T. A. Morgan, of Hammond, Ind., had suffered for years with his stomach and kidneys, and while the great Root Juice scientist was proving the merits of the Root Juice remedy to the people of northern Indiana Mr. Morgan purchased six bottles of the Juice and while it was being wrapped up he said: "If Root Juice cures me I will make the scientist a present of one hundred dollars. A short while ago Mr. Morgan called on the scientist and said that he could eat anything without the slightest inconvenience and that his kidney trouble was entirely cured. He wanted the scientist to take the one hundred dollars, but it was refused. However, it was agreed to give the money to an orphan asylum. So Root Juice is not only curing the sick, but in this instance will be the indirect means of caring for some dead mother's child. Root Juice has proved its wonderful merits to many people of this point. From the very start it seems to soothe and heal the linings of the stomach and bowels and strengthen the liver and kidneys, thereby giving nature a chance to, in her own way, throw off the impurities of the blood. It is a wonderful medicine. Sold for one dollar a bottle or three for two and a half at the People's drug store.

It Came Handy

By ROCKFORD KING

The history of gold mining regions repeats itself. First we have the land worth from nothing up to a few dollars an acre. Then some one digs a hole in the ground to put in a post, scoops out a cellar for a house, or something like that, and finds in the dirt taken out indications of the precious metal. He doesn't say anything to anybody, but goes off and gets it assayed. The report being favorable, he lets it be known that he has gold on his property. Those who strike indications pre-empt claims and organize companies with a few dollars capital, most of which is spent for printing certificates of stock. Every foot of the ground in the vicinity is staked out for mines, which cross and recross one another at every conceivable angle. There are thousands of these pieces of paper, nearly all worthless.

When the Clear Creek region of Colorado was in such a stage as this a man whom I shall call Peter Anderson, a young lawyer from the south, settled in Denver and hung out his shingle. He had a very frugal, patient wife, who was a real helpmate to him. She never permitted anything to be wasted, no matter how little value it possessed, and when her husband ruffled her on saving worthless things she would say cheerily, "It may come in handy just in the nick of time."

The principal law practiced in Colorado at that time was with the revolver; consequently Peter Anderson found little practice in his profession. But money was easily borrowed, and the Andersons managed to keep body and soul together by small loans. The husband found it dull sitting in his office waiting for clients, so he spent most of his time in a neighboring billiard room playing pool. He told his wife that this was a good way to make acquaintances and thus get business. She said she thought he was right.

The members of such communities are inveterate gamblers. Refreshments and the price of the game were to be paid for by the loser. In addition to this, the players, all of whom were possessed of worthless mining stocks, would put them up to be absorbed by the winner. A number of these certificates came into Peter Anderson's possession, but none of them ever found their way back to the persons from whom he won them. Every night after he had gone to sleep his wife would get up, search his pockets, take out what mining shares she found there and lock them up in an old trunk she kept in the garret. She never looked at the names of the companies they represented or bothered her head as to their value. Indeed, they were worthless or they would not have come so easily into her husband's possession. Every night his pockets were searched and emptied, but in the morning he would not miss his loss. If his wife had taken a few coins he might have noticed it, but mining stocks were quite a different matter. When he went round to the billiard room in the evening he would think that he had won some shares the night before, but, finding none in his pocket, fancy he had been mistaken. He was a very good pool player and had no difficulty in borrowing a few shares to begin on. Usually he would win, pay off the loan and go on playing on his own capital. If he left the place with stocks in his pocket, the next morning they would be deposited, as usual, in Mrs. Anderson's trunk.

But the pool players didn't bring Anderson any law business, and the wolf was continually snarling about his door. However, the wolves in such communities are usually coyotes, comparatively harmless, for any man will give or lend any other man if he has anything he doesn't need at the moment. Nevertheless Anderson's condition was not attractive, and except when he was playing pool he was very dispirited.

One day there was a big strike up on Clear Creek. A mining company had opened a vein that paid many hundreds of dollars to the ton. Peter Anderson when he went home that night told his wife about the strike, remarking, "Oh, how I wish I had some of the stock of the company!"

"I think you have, dear," said Mrs. Anderson, and she went up to her trunk and brought down an armful of mining share certificates. The two sorted them, tossing them when examined on the floor in their eager hunt for the one they coveted. Presently they came to a ten share certificate which alone would keep them for awhile. Then a fifty share turned up, then another ten, then a hundred, five hundred—indeed, all denominations. It was a good while before they got through the accumulated pile. When they did they figured up shares in the lucky company sufficient to give them a fortune of half a million dollars.

When the excitement of the find had died down a bit Anderson asked his wife where she had got all the certificates. Then she told him that she had robbed him of them, thinking that some of them might some day come in handy.

Anderson strolled downtown the next day, sold a few shares of his stock and went about paying small debts. That was the last of his playing pool for mining stocks, for he found plenty to do. The day came when he was sent to represent his state in the United States senate.

Publishers of magazines and the reading public would view in better spirit an increase in pound postage rates (the brunt of which would fall on the individual subscribers) if congressmen and other folks engaged in the public service were not enjoying a franking privilege which makes it possible for them to transport free of charge anything from private correspondence to poodle dogs, fireless cookers, pianos and automobiles.

How Colorado Farmers Make Profit by Preparing Seed.

In eastern Colorado, where most vine crops grow "to perfection" on the irrigated lands, hundreds of cucumbers, cantaloupes and watermelons are reserved for seed by seed companies and by farmers who grow them for the seed houses. It is a common sight from the first of October to the first of December to see machines in the fields of cucumbers and melons thrashing them for their seed.

The growing of cucumbers for seed is considered very profitable, and often the owner clears from $100 to $150 an acre. While it is possible to sell the cucumbers to a canning factory, many farmers prefer to let them remain for seed, as the expense of gathering is not so great and the income an acre is nearly as much. The thrashing continues for only a short time and costs a moderate amount.

The cucumber thrasher is a peculiar looking machine. It is built on a wagon-like frame with great wide wheels and is drawn by two horses. At the rear of the machine is stationed the little two horse power gasoline engine which operates the machinery of the thrasher. Just in front of the engine is the crusher, which looks something like a common cider mill. It contains two iron rollers moving together and crushing the cucumbers as they pass between them.

Against the crusher is set the framework containing the real seeder. When the cucumbers are crushed they pass out into this large cylindrical seeder, the outer surface of which is a wire netting with meshes large enough to permit the seed to drop through into a vat below, but holding back the crushed cucumbers. As the cylinder slowly revolves the seeds drop through the netting into a box.

SAVING THE PEACH CROP.

Uncle Sam Tells How to Cure "Black Spot" and Other Blights.

For years the peach brown rot has been recognized as a most destructive disease of stone fruits. This is a fungous disease, and it is widespread and very destructive to the peach crop. The loss which it inflicts on peach growers will easily average $5,000,000 yearly. The loss to the peach crop of Georgia alone is estimated at $1,000,000 a year.

Much work has been done with a view to discovering a satisfactory remedy for this trouble. Spraying with diluted bordeaux mixture has been most commonly recommended, but its injury to the foliage has made it unsatisfactory, since the remedy must be applied during the growing season.

The peach scab (often called "black spot") is another disease which seriously affects the peach crop in all sections east of the Rocky mountains, although not causing such serious losses as brown rot.

As the result of experimental work by the United States department of agriculture a cheap and simple remedy for this disease has been found in the self boiled lime sulphur wash. This can be applied during the growing season with very little danger of injuring the fruit or foliage, and it is very effective. Furthermore, by mixing arsenate of lead with the fungicide the curculio can be destroyed at the same time.

The department has just issued a bulletin describing the preparation and use of the remedy. This publication will be of great interest to peach growers in all sections and is supplied free for the asking.

A partition fence may prove a source of good will and neighborliness or enmity, depending upon whether the respective owners do or do not meet their obligations connected therewith. The same principle works out much the same with a number of other matters of everyday life which might be named.

The one great advantage that western states have over central and eastern is in the nearly ideal conditions which prevail during the harvest season of small grain and forage crops. Because of this it is possible to leave small grain standing weeks after it is fit to cut and to take alfalfa from the stack as bright and green as the day it was made.
